HighJump Software Receives Equipment Financing and Line of Credit from Silicon Valley Bank

Minneapolis, MN -- October 22, 2001 -- Silicon Valley Bank (the "Bank"), a wholly owned subsidiary of Silicon Valley Bancshares, announced it provided Eden Prarie, Minnesota-based HighJump Software with a $2 million line of credit and $400,000 in equipment financing.

HighJump Software, the premier provider of adaptable, Internet-powered supply chain execution (SCE) and bar code data collection solutions, will use the financing to further complete their overall growth strategy.

"We are delighted to be working with Silicon Valley Bank," said Bob Hiben, chief financial officer of HighJump Software. "In addition to providing this important financing, the Bank clearly understands our business needs and shares our vision to expand our company."

"Silicon Valley Bank is very excited about supporting the growth of HighJump Software," said Jay McNeil, regional manager of Silicon Valley Bank's Minneapolis office. "HighJump has an impressive product development and management team and will have a significant impact on its industry."
