Monro Announces Promotion of Armando Corado to Zone Manager Corado brings more than two decades of in-store managerial experience.

ROCHESTER, NY – Monro, Inc. (Nasdaq: MNRO) ("Monro"), one of the largest independent auto service and tire dealers in the United States, announces that Armando Corado has been promoted to zone manager from his previous role as district manager.

Corado will be responsible for coordinating with his zone's district managers and more than one hundred stores across Arkansas, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia to enhance Monro's short- and long-term strategic vision and financial performance. He will report directly to Russ Welsh, senior vice president – retail operations, north division.

"Armando prioritizes the value of a team," said Welsh. "The passion he has for his teammates and his two decades of in-store managerial experience have continued to be a prized asset for our company as we provide our guests with the best service in the business."

Corado joined Craven Tire in Fairfax, Virginia, in 1992 as an assistant manager and was promoted to store manager in 1994. Corado spent ten years with Craven Tire until it was acquired by Monro in 2007, where he served as the store manager at the new company location. In 2009, he was promoted to district manager, with responsibility for driving daily sales goals and overseeing one hundred teammates and an inventory of two million tires and parts.

Corado majored in international business at Northern Virginia Community College in Annandale, Virginia.
