This Product Innovation Award was the result of Sanmina's advanced RF, microelectronics and optical design, new product introduction and manufacturing capabilities. These capabilities enabled Sanmina and Ciena to jointly develop a unique RF microelectronic product solution to bring 100G optical communication systems to market in record time.

"Sanmina's design expertise in RF/Microwave module technologies, rapid prototyping and manufacturing ramp allowed our combined teams to develop innovative component solutions highly tailored to Ciena system architecture, with differentiated performance compared to other products on the market," said Dino DiPerna, Vice President, Research & Development for Transport and Switching, Ciena.

"Receiving Ciena's Product Innovation Award exemplifies Sanmina's commitment in providing world class RF, optical and microelectronics solutions to our customers," said Dave Dutkowsky, Executive Vice President, Communications Networks, Sanmina Corporation. "The combination of Ciena's product knowledge and Sanmina's expertise in RF and microelectronics technology, as well as our global manufacturing capability resulted in high quality, cost effective products that have been widely accepted by the marketplace."

Sanmina's Optical, RF and Microelectronics division designs, develops and manufactures advanced technology for the Communications, Networking, Medical, Defense and Aerospace and Industrial markets. For more information, go to <http://sanmina.com/solutions/optical-rf-microwave/>.
