

HowStuffWorks.com Shares the Secrets of Aphrodisiacs and Online Dating this Valentine's Day

February 11, 2009

ATLANTA, Feb. 11, 2009 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- HowStuffWorks.com, the Web site famous for demystifying the world, shares the secrets of the kiss, online dating, aphrodisiacs, and flirting to help readers find and celebrate love this Valentine's Day.

While the kiss has become a ubiquitous display of affection, few know its history. HowStuffWorks.com tells the story in How Kissing Works <http://people.howstuffworks.com/kissing.htm>.

For those looking to create a romantic atmosphere, tip the laws of attraction in their favor or make a special meal this Valentine's Day, HowStuffWorks.com reveals some of the secrets to help. From foods and scents to music, find out How Aphrodisiacs Work <http://health.howstuffworks.com/aphrodisiac.htm>.

Online dating has become the icebreaker of choice for millions of people searching for Mr. or Ms. Right. With pictures, personal profiles and a variety of personality tests, surfers are flocking to the Web to find their ideal mate. What's the best way to navigate and ensure a successful match that anyone interested on online dating needs to know? Find out in How Online Dating Works <http://people.howstuffworks.com/online-dating.htm>.

Flirting is both an art and a science largely driven by the confidence of the flirter. But approaching the target of one's affection can be wrought with anxiety. HowStuffWorks.com breaks it down in How Flirting Works <http://people.howstuffworks.com/flirting.htm>. The site also features a video where flirts can learn the tricks of the trade <http://videos.howstuffworks.com/discovery-health/13753-how-to-flirting-video.htm>.

Whether readers are looking for love or a romantic way to celebrate this Valentine's Day, HowStuffWorks.com is the online destination for demystifying the age-old questions of human attraction.

Notes for Media

Media is encouraged to link to HowStuffWorks.com articles. Please credit HowStuffWorks.com for any articles posted. Interviews are available with content specialists. Please contact Kathryn Kelly at 404.760.4337 or kkelly@howstuffworks.com, or Juliet Farrell at 240.662.1707 or juliet_farrell@discovery.com to schedule an interview.

About HowStuffWorks.com

HowStuffWorks.com (<http://www.howstuffworks.com>) is an online source of credible, unbiased and easy-to-understand explanations of how the world actually works. The site has won hundreds of awards since its inception, including multiple Webby Awards, Time Magazine's "25 Web Sites We Can't Live Without" and PC Magazine's "Top 100 Web Sites." In December 2007, HowStuffWorks.com was acquired by Discovery Communications (Nasdaq:DISAD) (Nasdaq:DISBD) (Nasdaq:DISCK) and became part of Discovery's digital media strategy. Headquartered in Atlanta, Ga., HowStuffWorks.com was a subsidiary of The Convex Group, a media and technology company, from 2003 to 2007.

The HowStuffWorks.com logo is available at <http://www.globenewswire.com/newsroom/prs/?pkgid=5884>

CONTACT: HowStuffWorks.com

Media Contact:

Kathryn Kelly

404.760.4337

kkelly@howstuffworks.com

Discovery Communications

Juliet Farrell

240.662.1707

juliet_farrell@discovery.com