THE IMPORTANCE OF TESTING

Cannabis testing is required by Health Canada for every batch of cannabis and cannabis products that are released or sold into the retail market. Test results provide important information regarding potency, purity and compounds found in your cannabis. By testing, you can assure Health Canada and consumers alike that your products are safe to consume and carry reliable dosing information.

SNDL Labs understands the importance of expedient results. That is why we report record breaking timelines, 4x faster than the average Canadian testing laboratory.

SNDL houses both its extraction services and lab testing under one roof, under separate Health Canada licenses. This advantage presents opportunity to avoid bottle neck situations while waiting for test results, concluding in efficient turn around times.
