

Local Pennsylvania Government Authority Chooses Tyler Technologies' Incode Product

Tyler Signs Contract with Hazleton City Authority

Tyler Technologies, Inc. (NYSE: TYL) has signed a contract with Hazleton City Authority (HCA), Penn., for Tyler's Incode local government software. The agreement includes software licenses, maintenance, support and related professional services.

Under the agreement, HCA will implement several modules from Incode's product suite, including financial, personnel management and utility billing services.

HCA acquired the trash disposal contract for Hazleton residents as part of its intergovernmental agreement with the city of Hazleton. In order to fulfill that role, HCA's board sought proposals from several firms to upgrade its current billing operation for both water and garbage collection. After a review of several proposals, the board chose Tyler Technologies to develop, deploy and maintain its utility billing operations.

"Hazleton City Authority is eager to move forward with this project and work with Tyler Technologies to boost our current capabilities in utility billing," said Hazleton City Authority Chairman Richard Ammon.
