Public-sector software company pledges $23,500 for scholarships and program support

PLANO, Texas – Dec. 3, 2013 – Tyler Technologies, Inc. (NYSE: TYL) today announced it is sponsoring the YMCA Dallas Youth and Government program and has pledged $23,500 in student scholarships and general financial support for the YMCA of Metropolitan Dallas program and district conference.

YMCA Youth and Government is a youth-led, civic engagement program for high school and middle school students. It's an exciting, hands-on experience in the mechanics of the state legislative and judicial process of government, which includes a district conference in December, and a four-day state conference in January 2014, in the state capital of Austin, Texas.

“At last year’s Youth and Government state conference, we observed students trying real-world criminal cases in mock courts, and presenting their bills for the legislature with such passion that we immediately realized supporting these remarkable young people would be a terrific way for Tyler to give back to the North Texas community,” said Bruce Graham, president of Tyler’s Courts & Justice Division. “It’s energizing to watch the next generation of judges, attorneys and lawmakers in action. Tyler looks forward to sponsoring this year’s Youth and Government program, and to hopefully extending our relationship in the future.”

The YMCA of Metropolitan Dallas is the state’s largest district, with more than 80 separate clubs of students throughout North Texas participating in the Youth and Government program. Tyler will award the following scholarships to Dallas-area students:

- Three individual scholarships to the winning senior student judge, prosecuting attorney and defense attorney at the 2013 District Youth and Government conference. Trial winners will be determined by actual sitting judges who volunteer to observe the mock trials.
- One scholarship to the participating senior student who submits a bill demonstrating the most innovative use of technology to further government. Tyler will judge the bills that are submitted and select the winning scholarship recipient.

“As the nation’s largest software company focused solely on software solutions for governments and schools, Tyler Technologies is a great fit for our Youth and Government program,” said Gordon Echtenkamp, CEO of the YMCA of Metropolitan Dallas. “We are very pleased to welcome Tyler as exclusive software company sponsor of this year’s Youth and Government program, and are eager to have Tyler help our students more fully understand how technology helps government more effectively meet the needs of its many constituents.”

Tyler Technologies’ headquarters is in the Dallas suburb of Plano, Texas, where more than 450 employees work in the company’s new corporate campus in Legacy Park. Plano is also home to Tyler’s Courts & Justice Division, whose technology has been selected by states, counties and courts that serve more than 75 million residents nationwide.
