

Cardinal Health completes acquisition of the Advanced Diabetes Supply Group (ADSG)

ADSG accelerates growth strategy for Cardinal Health at-Home Solutions

DUBLIN, Ohio, April 1, 2025 – Cardinal Health (NYSE: CAH) announced today that it has completed its acquisition of the Advanced Diabetes Supply Group (ADSG). ADSG is a leading national direct-to-patient diabetes medical supplies provider that serves approximately 500,000 patients annually.

ADSG's comprehensive solutions are tailored to support individual patients in their homes by providing innovative diabetes therapies like continuous glucose monitors (CGMs) from leading manufacturers. The acquisition is synergistic with Cardinal Health at-Home Solutions' strategy to expand patients served and accelerate growth in key areas, including the increasing diabetes patient population. The ADSG team will become a part of Cardinal Health's at-Home Solutions business.

About Cardinal Health

Cardinal Health is a distributor of pharmaceuticals and specialty products; a global manufacturer and distributor of medical and laboratory products; a supplier of home-health and direct-to-patient products and services; an operator of nuclear pharmacies and manufacturing facilities; and a provider of performance and data solutions. Our company's customer-centric focus drives continuous improvement and leads to innovative solutions that improve people's lives every day. Learn more about Cardinal Health at cardinalhealth.com and in our Newsroom.

Contacts

Media: Cari Wildasinn, Cari.Wildasinn@cardinalhealth.com and (614) 757-8287

Investors: Matt Sims, Matt.Sims@cardinalhealth.com and (614) 553-3661